ESP is the oldest network organisation in the world focussing on ICT-based innovation of education

Back in 1987 the European Schools Project was born.

Every year conferences have been organised for and by teachers, educators and researchers. These are working conferences in which interaction and collaboration are central. The main goal is for participants to return to their schools and start international computer supported collaborative learning projects (CSCL-projects).

Over the years thousands of teachers and students have successfully worked together on collaborative projects in many languages.

The overarching aim of ESP has been, still is, and will be: the ICT-based innovation of our indispensable social systems: SCHOOLS.

Innovating Education through International ICT-Collaboration

In 2011 we reach a milestone.

The 25th Anniversary Conference will be held in Denmark. During this conference we take stock of the valuable examples of good practice developed over time. In a world where ICT is constantly changing we focus on the challenges and opportunities facing schools and education in the future.

The issue of re-designing schools into high quality sustainable learning environments where young persons are motivated to learn will be discussed. How can we face the future challenges of Education together?

A Working and Training Conference for and by Educators

Our 25th conference is for heads and teachers of primary, secondary, vocational and special needs' education, International and ICT coordinators, teacher trainers, educational researchers, and policy makers.
